

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A medical image handling system includes a monitor for displaying a medical image, an input device for inputting an image reading report
5 corresponding to the medical image displayed on the monitor, and a processor. The processor judges presence or absence of an image reading report corresponding to the medical image displayed on the monitor, and restricts a change of the medical image
10 in case the image reading report is judged as absent.